

Caroline Rees Glass Design

Original Sandblasted Glass

decorated glass for any architectural application in any size and design

Caroline Rees has been designing and making sandblasted glass for commercial and domestic architectural applications since 1999.

The traditional technique of sandblasting is employed in an original way to create architectural glass which combines design, craftsmanship, beauty and function.

The glass transmits light yet offers a degree of privacy whilst adding an artistic statement to any interior or exterior space.

A bespoke service invites involvement in the design process reflecting the client's individuality and style.

All the glass meets current UK building regulations.
